

Professor Kipper Kidd Meets Meaning Mayhem with a twist!

Directions: One person reads the words in brackets and the other person gives answers. Right these words by the brackets. When all the brackets are full, someone can read the new story for a fun twist to Meaning Mayhem!

Professor Kipper Kidd wants to help kids get along better with sisters, brothers and [a scary creature].

He has help from Burblex the Bot, Randa the red panda, and Wudsol the wooden puppet. One day they received a [odd gift] from Booker who was upset with Ethan after they [a strange thing to do together].

Booker said Ethan was 'bonkers' because Ethan could not understand him, so Kipper asked Burblex to go back in time and run the clip. Sure enough, Booker used words that were [colour] and [a feeling] so no wonder Ethan was confused! Ethan thought "butterflies in my stomach" meant that Booker had eaten [a winged creature] and that "insane" meant [a crazy phrase].

Boy, was there ever meaning mayhem! The boys got a Second Chance to communicate more clearly after Randa showed helpful [a body part] expressions like

[a greeting you give]. Wudsol was worried that he has no [a toy] or [a piece of clothing] which makes communicating hard! By the end of the story

Ethan and Booker were using clear [something in a forest] and expressive [something on a shelf] and made beautiful meanings together. Kipper encouraged everyone to use [a tool] and [a flower] to show what they are thinking and feeling.
